FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

White Fillings: your questions answered

Tooth coloured composite fillings to repair teeth damaged by decay, wear or small fractures, matched to the shade of your natural teeth.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Your questions answered

Why do you not offer amalgam fillings?

We use composite because it is tooth coloured and bonds to the tooth, which often means less healthy tooth is removed. Amalgam use is also being phased down in the UK.

Should I replace my old silver fillings?

Not if they are sound. We only recommend replacing them if they are broken, leaking or have decay around them, or if you would like a change for appearance after discussing the risks.

Will it hurt?

We numb the tooth first, so you should feel pressure and vibration rather than pain. Let us know if you feel anything sharp.

How long will a white filling last?

It varies with the size of the filling, your bite, diet and cleaning. Many last for years, but none lasts forever.

Can I eat straight away?

The filling is set when you leave, but wait until the numbness has gone so you do not bite yourself.

Why is my tooth sensitive?

Sensitivity is common after a filling, especially a deep one, and usually settles within a few weeks. If it worsens, please contact us.

What is a rubber dam?

A thin sheet that fits around the tooth to keep it dry and clean. It helps the filling bond well and stops small pieces going into your mouth.

When would I need an onlay instead?

When a cavity is large or a cusp is weak, a ceramic onlay may be stronger. We will explain the options.
