FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Bridges: your questions answered

A bridge is a fixed way to replace one or more missing teeth by attaching a false tooth to the teeth next to the gap. It can be conventional or resin bonded.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Your questions answered

What is the difference between a conventional and a resin bonded bridge?

A conventional bridge is held by crowns on the neighbouring teeth, which need shaping. A resin bonded bridge is glued to the back of a neighbouring tooth with little or no drilling, but is more likely to come loose.

Is a bridge better than an implant?

Each has advantages. A bridge needs no surgery and is quicker. An implant does not involve the neighbouring teeth. We will explain which suits you.

How long does a bridge last?

Many bridges last for many years, but this varies. Resin bonded bridges may need rebonding. Good cleaning and check ups help.

Will it look natural?

We choose the shade and shape with you to blend with your teeth. Results vary.

How do I clean under it?

Use superfloss, a floss threader or small interdental brushes under the false tooth each day. We will show you how.

Does it hurt?

The teeth are numbed during preparation. Mild sensitivity afterwards is common and usually settles.

What if my resin bonded bridge comes off?

Keep it safe and contact us. It can often be rebonded.

Can I have a bridge if I have gum disease?

Gum disease needs to be treated and stable first, as healthy supporting teeth are essential.
