FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Emergency Dental Treatment: your questions answered

Emergency dental treatment relieves pain, controls infection and stabilises an urgent problem. It is often temporary, and further treatment is usually needed to fix the cause.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Your questions answered

Can I get antibiotics for toothache?

Antibiotics do not cure toothache. National guidance says they should only be used when infection is spreading or you are unwell. Treating the tooth directly is what clears the cause.

Is my treatment today permanent?

Usually not. Emergency treatment relieves pain and stabilises the problem. Further treatment is normally needed.

What should I do if a tooth is knocked out?

Pick it up by the crown, not the root. If it is clean, gently push it back in place, or keep it in milk or your cheek, and come in straight away. Do not replant baby teeth.

When should I go to A&E?

Go to A&E or call 999 if swelling affects your breathing, swallowing or eye, bleeding will not stop, or you have a facial injury with head injury.

Why might you remove the nerve?

Removing the inflamed or infected nerve from inside the tooth often relieves severe toothache. Root canal treatment then needs to be completed.

What is incision and drainage?

If there is a collection of pus, a small cut in the gum lets it drain, which relieves pressure and pain.

Can my crown be recemented?

Often yes, if the crown and tooth are sound. If the tooth underneath is decayed or broken, a new crown or other treatment may be needed.

What will it cost?

The emergency assessment is £125. We will explain the cost of any treatment before we start.
